CONVOCATION

St. Thomas University's Convocation is a gathering of the university community to confer degrees, present awards and medals, and hear the Address to Graduates and Valedictory. Convocation begins with a processional led by graduating students who are followed by faculty, officials, and guests. Each group occupies a designated position and the processional becomes a meeting of the university, the definition of convocation. The Chancellor and the President wear ceremonial St. Thomas University robes designed for their office, while many faculty wear the hoods and gowns of their alma mater. The university bestows honorary degrees on individuals who have been deemed deserving of recognition by a Joint Board of Governors-Senate Committee. Wearing green and gold-trimmed robes, St. Thomas University's colours, the recipients receive hoods symbolizing their degrees. Graduating students who have met the university's academic standards are similarly hooded and formally granted all the honours, rights, and privileges pertaining to their degree.

EAGLE FEATHER

Graduating Indigenous students were gifted with Eagle Feathers at a ceremony and are carrying their feather as they receive their degree. In Indigenous communities, there is a sacred connection between the Eagle and the Creator as the Eagle flies highest and closest to the Creator and carries human prayers. In "The Story of the Eagle Feather," the Eagle offered one of its feathers to the human family as a sign of love and healing and a reminder of "Sacred Teachings." An Eagle Feather bestows honour and responsibility as it symbolizes being a messenger for respect, truth, courage, and wisdom as passed down by Elders.

KENTE STOLE

The Kente Stole commemorates the differences and obstacles Black students overcome in order to graduate. Adapted from African tradition in Ghana, this woven cloth, which was once only worn by royalty, is a scarf-like garment worn over the shoulders that represents an accomplishment, graduation, or other rite of passage. The Kente Stole honours the legacy of Black ancestors and is a testament to each graduate's strength and excellence.

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

Harry Forestell is a journalist whose professional achievements have been noteworthy and whose public service advocacy has been inspirational. An alumnus of STU, Forestell has had a front-row seat to the news and newsmakers in Europe, the United Kingdom, and Canada. Following work as a CBC producer, he accepted assignments in the UK for the BBC World Service and National Public Radio. After serving as CBC-TV's business correspondent for Europe, he returned to Canada in 1999 as a correspondent for The National and host of the CBC News Morning Show. He was named anchor of CBC News for New Brunswick in 2010. Over his career, he regularly volunteered for community and social organizations, and in 2015, following his own diagnosis, he became a supporter of Parkinson's Canada. In 2024 he was nominated for a Canadian Screen Award for his interview with actor and Parkinson's advocate Michael J. Fox. His openness in living with Parkinson's has been courageous.

Both H. Harrison McCain, CC, ONB and Marion (Billie) McNair McCain believed strongly in supporting community projects in their beloved New Brunswick and the Atlantic Provinces. Since 1997, the Harrison McCain Foundation has been a champion of education, arts, science, health, and the environment. Marion McCain believed that artists in the region should be recognized more widely, and she sponsored a series of art exhibitions beginning in the late 1980s. Today, the Marion McCain Atlantic Art Exhibitions and the publication "BILLIE" continues her dedication to promoting artists, and the Marion McCain Institute of Atlantic Art at the Beaverbrook Art Gallery ensures that her commitment to the arts continues.

At St. Thomas University, support from the Harrison McCain Foundation has been instrumental in supporting the Wabanaki Centre, and STU now has the second highest percentage of Indigenous students in the country. In addition, Harrison McCain Foundation Bursaries have meant that many STU students have received funding to pursue their education, and Harrison McCain Research Grants have supported faculty. These transformative gifts are a living legacy of two proud New Brunswickers.

CHANCELLOR

Sandra Irving, CM, ONB is a champion of higher education and a long-standing supporter of students. With her late husband Arthur, she has made many significant and transformative contributions to higher education in New Brunswick and across Canada. Through philanthropy and leadership, they have helped to increase student access to higher education, elevate scholarly excellence, and support the vitality of post-secondary institutions. As Chair of the President's Advisory Council of the Royal Society of Canada, she encouraged wider recognition of leading professors and researchers, and assisted the Royal Society in engaging emerging scholars, youth, and students from First Nations.

For her many contributions to post-secondary education, social and community services, and youth organizations, Irving was named to the Order of Canada and the Order of New Brunswick. For her contributions to society and the ideals she has modeled, Irving received an honorary degree from St. Thomas in 2017. She earned a Bachelor of Arts with distinction from UNB-Saint John and a Master of Arts from the University of Toronto.

FACULTY AWARDS

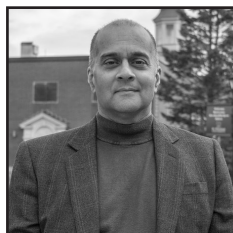

JOHN MCKENDY MEMORIAL TEACHING AWARD

Dr. Thomas Bateman holds a BA and MA from the University of Calgary, and a PhD from the University of Alberta. Since becoming a faculty member in 2003, he has developed more than fifteen new courses in Political Science, Law, Politics, and Society, and Great Books, the latter in areas of literature, philosophy, and theology. His approach to teaching, enthusiasm for his subjects, and high standards and expectations greatly appeals to his students and inspires them. He utilizes a variety of pedagogies, including experiential learning and multi-disciplinary approaches, and his teaching centres on achieving students' success through classroom engagement and mastery of key texts; as a result, students complete his courses well-prepared and enthused about the content. Working with the Legislative Assembly, he launched a New Brunswick Legislative Internship Program which is open to all senior post-secondary students in the province. Bateman recently developed the successful Law, Politics, and Society program which explores how law and politics intersect in Canada.

UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIP AWARD

Dr. Shaun Narine holds a BA and MA from the University of Alberta, and a PhD from the University of Toronto, and began teaching in the Department of Political Science in 2002 where he is currently Chair. He has made extensive contributions to the field of international relations and has published two scholarly books on the Association of Southeast Asian Nations. He has authored or co-authored 33 peer-reviewed research articles or chapters in edited books, a number of which have been included in annual compilations. He has received 16 competitive awards for his research. He has presented at over 100 conferences around the world and organized numerous academic events and workshops, including the popular STU Faculty Public Lecture Series. He regularly contributes editorials to The Conversation, The Hill Times, Rabble.ca, and Asia Times, bringing scholarly expertise to wider audiences. He has consulted for the Canadian Defense and Security Foresight Group and Global Affairs Canada, and has been a Visiting Fellow at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies in Singapore.

UNIVERSITY SERVICE AWARD

Dr. Jamie Gillies is Chair of the Department of Journalism and Communications, and holds a BA from the University of Victoria, and an MA and PhD from University of British Columbia. Over 14 years, he has established a record of service to the university helping to increase its profile. He is a political commentator for the CBC, CTV, The Globe and Mail, Bloomberg, The National Post, and Brunswick News.

He is a regular presence on the CBC where he offers analysis on local, provincial, and national issues, and he is a weekly contributor to the CBC New Brunswick political panel. Dr. Gillies is also Executive Director of the Frank McKenna Centre for Communications and Public Policy, and he serves on the Board of Directors for the Atlantic Human Rights Centre and Dalton Camp Endowment. He regularly delivers talks to community organizations and volunteers with many groups. He is only the second faculty member to receive each of the merit awards for teaching, scholarship, and service.
